

Phoenix in a Jade Bowl: Growing Up in Korea

By Bonnie Bongwan Cho Oh

CreateSpace Independent Publishing Platform. Paperback. Book Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. Paperback. 170 pages. Dimensions: 7.9in. x 4.9in. x 0.6in. This is the story of my growing-up years in South Korea from the mid-1930s to early 1956, when I came to the United States to receive more substantial undergraduate education. South Korea was in the throes of reconstruction both chaotic and uneven after the end of the Korean War, which lasted three years and left a devastated country in ruins. Little learning went on even in the most prominent institution of higher education in Korea, Seoul National University. My desire to lay a firm intellectual foundation for my adult life during my undergraduate years overcame all possible negative consequences of leaving my parents and home for the first time in my life. Never did it occur to me at the time that I would not return to my native land to live but instead make a home in this country. I came to study for just a few years. I have now lived in United States for 57 years. The title, Phoenix in a Jade Bowl, is the literal translation of my given name Bongwan, which consists of two Chinese...
