Homeless, Friendless, and Penniless: The Wpa Interviews with Former Slaves Living in Indiana

By Ronald L. Baker

Indiana University Press. Hardback. Book Condition: new. BRAND NEW, Homeless, Friendless, and Penniless: The Wpa Interviews with Former Slaves Living in Indiana, Ronald L. Baker, "Homeless, Friendless, and Penniless" is based on a collection of interviews with former slaves who lived in Indiana in the late 1930s. The interviews were conducted as part of Indiana's contribution to a federal project undertaken in seventeen states during the Great Depression. Over a three-year period, former slaves and, in some cases, descendants of former slaves, shared their memories with fieldworkers of the Federal Writers' Project (FWP) of the Works Progress Administration (WPA), renamed the Work Projects Administration in 1939. As a result of this early fieldwork in folklore and oral history, today we have an invaluable record of the lives and thoughts of former slaves who moved to Indiana after the Civil War and made significant contributions to the evolving patchwork of Hoosier culture. The Indiana interviews are especially notable because they were collected from freed slaves living in a state that was free during the Civil War. Most of the other former slaves interviewed for the national project still lived in the South, very close to where they were held in bondage....

This publication will never be straightforward to get going on looking at but really fun to see. This can be for all those who stante that there had not been a worth looking at. You wont really feel monotony at at any moment of your own time (that's what catalogs are for about should you request me).
